

The Stained Glass Museum

Merseyside Study Weekend

Thursday 13 - Sunday 16 May 2010

This year's stained glass study weekend will focus on Liverpool and its surrounding areas. We will be staying on Liverpool's magnificently restored Albert Dock.

We have planned an exciting programme with wide appeal. The weekend begins on Thursday afternoon when we will visit Port Sunlight to view the windows by 20th Century artist Ervin Bossanyi, as well as the Lady Lever Art Gallery which houses, among other exhibits, paintings by Sir John Millais and Sir Joshua Reynolds.

Friday will take us to both of Liverpool's magnificent cathedrals to revel in 20th Century glass and to the Walker Art Gallery which will include a private visit to its wonderful collection of medieval glass.

On Saturday we will visit the National Trust property of Speke Hall* (1490-1612) richly endowed with armorial glass and also St Helen's Church, Sefton with more medieval glass. All Hallows Church, Allerton and Ullet Rd Unitarian Church provide a feast for lovers of Burne Jones and William Morris.

On Sunday you will be free to explore the fascinating Museums and Galleries within walking distance of the hotel; including the Merseyside Maritime Museum, Tate Liverpool and the International Slavery Museum

Our guides will be Penny Hebgin-Barnes, author of CVMA volume 'The Medieval Stained Glass of Lancashire' and renowned stained glass artist Alfred Fisher, a native of Liverpool who trained in the studio of James Powell & Sons.

We will be staying at the Premier Inn on Liverpool's Albert Dock. There is a choice of two packages :
